- to book as a group booking and can be customised to suit your training needs and delivered at your venue or ours

Why choose this course?

This face to face course is recommended for all workers who require knowledge of safe work practices in order to prevent, and if necessary control, infection in the workplace. This course will equip participants with the latest evidence based knowledge required to prevent and control infection according to current Work Health Safety (WHS) legislation, standards and industry codes of practice. The course focuses on safe work practices to ensure the health and safety of workers, clients and others in the workplace.

What content does the course cover?

This course provides participants with the knowledge required to follow safe work practices in order to prevent and control infection in the workplace including:

- Identifying the risk of infection
- Responding appropriately to situations that pose an infection risk and reporting accordingly
- Identifying common infections
- Recognising the main modes of transmission of infection
- Applying standard precautions as part of own work routine
- Recognising situations when transmission based precautions may be required and reporting accordingly
- Applying transmission based precautions when standard precautions may not be sufficient to control infections.

Course completion requires:

Participation in all learning activities throughout the course which include tailored workplace problem solving activities. Participants will have an opportunity to demonstrate practical skills in applying standard and transmission based precautions in a simulated workplace environment.
